What is the Video Ride for Science?

It is a video simulation of a bicycle ride where you will watch a video ride along different road and path segments and a variety of roadway conditions. During the video simulation you will independently evaluate how well you feel the road or path accommodates and serves your needs as a bicyclist.

When is the Video Ride for Science?

Saturday, March 21, 2009. Start times begin at 9:00 am and will run through 1:00 pm. You should allow approximately 1 hour total time for the video simulation.

Where will the event be held?

The event will be held at the Museum of Science and Industry (MOSI), 4801 E. Fowler Avenue, Tampa, Florida 33617. You can access the parking area from Fowler Avenue east of McKinley Drive and west of 50th Street.

Why should you participate?

Your evaluations of how well roads and paths accommodate and serve your needs as a bicyclist will be used to make recommendations to the Florida Department of Transportation for better roadway design guidelines that will help improve bicycling conditions in Florida and the United States.

Who can participate?

The Ride for Science is open to all persons age 13 years and older.

How much does it cost?

FREE!!
